

PUBLIC PARTICIPATION (1964, R1984, R2001*, R2008)

Policy Statement

The American Society of Landscape Architects believes that an open, participatory design process can create better communities and a healthier environment. Public involvement will help identify the issues important to the community and develop the most appropriate planning, design, and management solutions. The quality of a community's culture, buildings, monuments, infrastructure, and parks reflects on its civic pride and values. Projects that contribute to the public realm should have a lasting positive effect on both the community and the environment. Therefore, ASLA supports the engagement of the public and stakeholders in all phases of the process.
